View the web on your nook... without rooting your device!? Instapaper is a great tool that lets you browse the web and quickly bookmark web sites you'd like to review later. They have a new "beta" feature allows you to take those sites you saved off and create an ePub file that you can side load onto your nook.

How might you use this? Maybe during the work day you run across a lot of articles you want to read on a business flight. Instapaper allows you to collect all those and view them offline on your long plane trip ... or during those hours waiting in the airport.

It's pretty easy to use. I put together a short "screen-cam" video demo on how to use the tool. Hope you find it useful!
