

Written by Mark (Admin)

Wednesday, 26 January 2011 22:02 - Last Updated Wednesday, 26 January 2011 22:18

Ok, so what's the big deal with this release? Not much. If you were hoping for Android 2.2 Froyo update

the

nookMarket

, etc you'll have to wait for a future release. Here is what B&N published for this update:

- Improved performance of Wi-Fi connectivity, Home and Shop.
- Ability to pinch and zoom in browser.
- Enhanced reading experience for magazines and children's books.
- Access helpful NOOKcolor related information and support tips on the new default browser home page.
- Reduce mistyped passwords with "show password" option during registration and Wi-Fi set up.
- Easily identify NOOK kids Read To Me™ books with a new text banner next to the titles in Shop.
- General bug fixes and performance improvements.

Please be aware that the update will break root. There isn't much here, if you rooted, I'd wait.

Written by Mark (Admin)

Wednesday, 26 January 2011 22:02 - Last Updated Wednesday, 26 January 2011 22:18

The update will be rolled out gradually automatically over wi-fi. You can update your device immediately by downloading the manual update from Barnes & Noble.

Click Here for all the details from B&N

{jcomments on}